

EXPORT COMPLIANCE BASICS FOR BUSINESS

If you are a U.S. business that sends products, services or technology/technical data to foreign countries, you are subject to export control regulations. Having a compliance program that ensures you are compliant in all areas of your business will help you to avoid export violations.

We invite you to join Dan Sacco of Bulkley Richardson as he addresses these important topics.

- U.S. Export Control Regulations How they regulate the release of critical technologies, information, and services to foreign countries and, in some cases, to foreign nationals in the U.S.

- Developing and Implementing an Export Compliance Program Avoid major challenges arising from export control violations

- Avoiding Export Control Violations Penalties can be severe and may include significant fines, the denial of export privileges, and criminal prosecution

About the Speaker:

Prior to joining Bulkley Richardson, Dan Sacco was the Sr. Associate Director of University of Massachusetts Amherst's Office of Research Compliance where he was responsible for implementing and enhancing their export control compliance program and responding to related issues.

Dan Sacco

 When: Wednesday, September 27 at 12pm

 Where: Zoom

Register: Bulkley.com/export-compliance